He was the patriarch of the family and the glue that held the Ortiz's together. The knowledge and experience he shared with us will live on in our memories and hearts forever. He was stubborn but steadfast in his convictions. He encouraged us when no one else would. He forgave us when others had turned their backs, and he supported us when the weight of the world was on our shoulders. All of his children and grandchildren were blessed by his guidance and generosity and even though we all took different paths in life, many of the opportunities we're granted were made possible by his hard work and sacrifice.
