“ From the time I was just a little girl, and my brother was a little boy, he wanted to share all he could to make us laugh. I will never ever forget his jokes, and the bunny joke (I am sure all the grandkids know what I'm talking about. I never saw him without a smile, but what will forever stay clear in my mind, is his laugh, and his ability to make others laugh.

Grandpa Hatch was a 'man among men'!
He was always the King of his surroundings; all around him was his personal domain. He was my biggest fan, even in my failings, always ready with words of encouragement and advice. I loved him for that!
He was wise in his way and always willing to help anyone in need. He was gentle and kind in nature, but was always at the ready to fight for the 'cause' and to protect those who God had entrusted to him.
He was the hardest working man that I ever knew, rising far above what others may have assumed was his station in life.
He was generous, and always had a smile handy when I entered the room. His mood and demeanor were always uplifting, calming the fears of my youth and leaving me, at the end of the day, in high spirits.
He was my hero and I would be happy to have him share my 'foxhole' anytime!
He loved all of us equally, that is to say, with his whole heart. I loved him back in equal measure.
I find myself extremely sad today at his passing. The sadness is for me, for I miss him greatly. But I also feel brilliant heights of joy, as well, and that is for him. He will be in the good company of those who have gone before him!
Please tell them all hi for me.
I love you Dad...hasta la vista...
