Born in Elmhurst, IL, on January 22nd, 1938, Elsie lived for her children, and later, grandchildren. She loved the sound of the water, and the hush of the ocean. She lived a wild, adventurous life, full of as many experiences as anyone could dream of. She was a fighter who beat cancer and came out swinging through life. She was never far from a cup of coffee and a cigarette, and had a roster of stories from her youth and beyond that she was always eager to tell. She loved children, always stopping to say hello, or entertain whatever little ones cast their gazes her way. She made an unbeatable cheesecake and loved a chocolate soda.

She will be dearly and dreadfully missed by all who knew her, and her absence will be sorely felt for the years yet to come.
