“My father didn't tell me how to live; He lived and let me watch him do it.”

This quote by Clarence Kelland embodies my dad who suddenly passed away last night.

You see my dad was the hardest working man I know. He taught my brother and I about work ethic. Now my dad wasn't always just about work.

He took every opportunity to make people laugh, or try to at least, in his corny little ways. You see he loved to laugh and to make others do the same.

My dad didn't allow distance be the reason why people didn't stay in touch. He had friends in Hawaii, California, Pennsylvania, Greece. He was always on the phone talking to someone. He gave my mom a run for her money on phone usage.

My father appreciated quality and the classics. His movie collection is evident of this along with his tube TV which wasn't broke so why replace it?

My dad enjoyed the sun and water and he wasn't one of those guys that was afraid to get in and make memories.

I know that my dad loved the Lord, his family, and his friends and I look forward to the opportunity of reuniting with you in Heaven one day.

You were my first love, my role model and I am I proud to call you my dad. Until we meet again! I love you daddy!

What an amazing tribute to your father Maria. He was truly quite the comic. He will be missed. May his memory be eternal.
