“ I used to cut Jim’s hair back in the 80s and 90s so like over 15 years! I loved our conversations! He was a great listener! I remember the day he met his wife Jen! He absolutely adored her! I’m so glad he had a happy life! Was one of my favorite client! RIP my friend

“ I had the pleasure of knowing Jim as a friend for more than 20 years. We first met in 2002 at Forsythe Technology, Inc. He was working as an outside consultant, and I quickly realized Jim would be a great addition to the accounting management team. I hired Jim in 2003. He could be trusted to improve every process and procedure that he was asked to review and evaluate. But his strong technical skills were “runner up” to his personality and respect that he had for his coworkers, who likewise held Jim in high regard.

Jen, I will always cherish Jim’s friendship.
