“ Jeff was a close friend and associate and fellow parishioner of many years at Queen of all saints Church. Until recently, we were still exchanging funny posts on Facebook, mostly about his passion which is everything about Airplanes. A great all around guy with a great sense of humor who helped me whenever I get in trouble with my computer, which was often when I was just getting started with them. He will be greatly missed by everyone he was in contact with. Our loss will be the Lord's gain, and I believe He will keep him close for the endless laughter and lighthearted discussions about the mechanics of flight and the human attempts to defeat gravity and leave the ground. Sending our deepest sympathies prayers and condolences to the family.

“ Jeff was a true friend, a brother! From freshman year in high school to our last visit in September and the countless times in between, he was the one who brought laughter, happiness, and warmth. We both moved around a lot but Jeff would always call or even make long trips to visit. Once, in town for work, he called to ask what I was doing—we then spent a memorable day at the Air and Space Museum seeing his beloved planes. Knowing Jeff was knowing goodness. My prayers are with his family and friends.

“ Jeff will be remembered by me and many others as a devout Saturday Morning (6:30am) Prayer Group Member and Mass goer at Queen of All Saints Basilica, in the Sauganash neighborhood on the North Side of Chicago. He was always a bright light and brought joy to our group. Jeffrey you will be missed. Condolences to all remaining family members.

“ I had the great privilege of sharing long theological conversations with Jeff and about his great desire to live the Faith. I always learned from Jeff's technical knowledge and we shared similar scenes of humor. Greatly missed. My Christmas Mass intention was for the repose of his soul.

“ Jeff was a dedicated colleague who brought kindness and warmth to every call he answered as Maintenance Controller back at the day. Even though our time working together was brief, he left a lasting impression with his hard work, friendly nature, and willingness to help others. His genuine spirit will be missed, and our thoughts are with his family and friends.
