“ Virginia was one of the women I admired most in the whole world. She was beautiful, dignified, quiet speaking, kind and giving. I lived next door to the family for 14 years and felt as welcome there as in my own home. She always visited with me, gave me her opinions, fed me and even played canasta with me and the rest of her family. She obviously loved her husband and her children. I have missed her since we moved away in 1971 on and now will miss her even more because I can never go back home to her. I pray God gives Karen and the boys and their families peace. . . And strength to face the future without her until they are joined again. I suspect she was really missing Buddy.
