“Patricia was my grandmother, and our family was deeply saddened to hear of her passing. She always exuded warmth, and made all that entered her home feel special and genuinely welcome. She would always have iced tea waiting, and never let anyone leave hungry! Did I also mention that she had THE BEST German chocolate cake?! My Dad and I always looked forward to having it at Christmastime. She would often call it my Dad's birthday cake since Christmas was also only 2 days away from my Dad's birthday.

Some of my fondest memories with her were our conversations either around the dining room table or in her living room. She would lean forward in her chair and smile as she patiently listened. She was the best listener! Her calm, gentle, sweet demeanor was always so reassuring, and made you feel at peace.

I also enjoyed listening to her, and treasure the stories she shared with me. Phrases I remember her saying were "oh my land!" And "Bless their heart". I will never hear those phrases again without thinking of her, and hearing her sweet voice!

For over 40 years of her life, Grandma was blind. But in all my 32 years, I never once heard her complain. Although she never saw mine, my husband's, or my children's faces, she fell in love with each of us through our voices and touch. She delighted in the details and descriptions my uncles gave of us, and listened with reverence. Her level of care and concern for others is truly unmatched.

Her passing is undoubtedly a devastating blow to the family. While our hearts are heavy, our hearts also rejoice that she can finally see, and by God's amazing grace, one day she will finally see us all for the first time in heaven! How beautiful and absolutely wonderful that day is going to be! We love her and miss her very much, and our thoughts and prayers are with all mourning her loss.

“ *He will swallow up death forever;
and the Lord God will wipe away tears from all faces, and the reproach of his people he will take away from all the earth,
for the Lord has spoken.*

-Isaiah 25:8

It was always a highlight of the holiday season to go to Grandma Crawford's house. She would sit down and talk with me. She always showed interest in what was going on with my life and was a constant source of wisdom. Grandma Crawford was like that with anyone she would talk with. I have so many wonderful memories growing up. She was a kind, gentle woman, and I miss her.
