“ I was so sorry, and shocked, to hear of Bill's passing. He was such a sweet man, and a great person to work with. He could really brighten up the day, and going into work won't ever be the same, without him.

I remember, every once in a while, I'd walk up front, and find him playing the claw machine. He looked just like a big kid! If he won a prize, he once told me that he'd hand them out to littles, who came into the store.

He always had the most interesting stories, and I loved finding myself in the breakroom, at the right time to hear them.

Sometimes, he'd just open his locker, pull out a book, and hand it to you. I've got three. Bill knew I was interested in vintage eras, and the 1920's. So, about a month ago, after he'd finished an interesting biography about an actress from the era, he brought me the book. He was so excited to tell me all about her fascinating life, and I wish I'd finished reading it earlier, so we could have talked about it more.

My thoughts are with Bill's family, at this difficult time.
